Alysha Yagoda is a real estate, corporate, and general business attorney. She has over 10 years' experience representing development companies, investors, and mortgage lenders in all aspects of complex real estate transactions, including acquisition, development, disposition, financing, and leasing of multi-family, agricultural, and commercial properties.

Alysha's healthcare specific experience includes leasing for medical and dental offices and facilities; mergers and acquisitions in the healthcare space, including primary responsibility for negotiating and drafting purchase agreements, transfer documents and corporate documents governing post-sale operations; and review and negotiation of a variety of vendor agreements.

In addition, Alysha advises clients on navigating state and federal law for the conduct of research on human subjects, for which she draws on her depth of experience in administration of institutional review boards.
